WOMEN'S SOCCER CHAMPIONSHIP AT LOYOLA

The first ever Canadian Interuniversity Athletic Union (CIAU) National Women's Soccer Championship has been awarded to Concordia University, Associate Director of Fitness, Recreation & Athletics Kathy McDonald has announced.

Concordia's bid to host the event was unanimously accepted by the general assembly of the CIAU in St. Catharines, Ontario recently. It will take place November 11 and 12 at the Loyola Campus with the Ontario Women's Intercollegiate Athletic Association (OWIAA) meeting the Atlantic University Athletic Association (AUAA) and the Canada West University Athletic Association locking horns with Quebec in semi final action on the Saturday. The championship match will be held the next day.

McGill University will be hosting the men's soccer championship on the same weekend. A joint banquet is planned.

The Stingers will be coached by Kathy Lipari, an assistant coach last season.
